

Now:

Change aperitif / digestif to aperitivo and digestivo

Future / Phase 2:

Leadgen component: discount for email?

Email or Whatsapp the recipe to you?

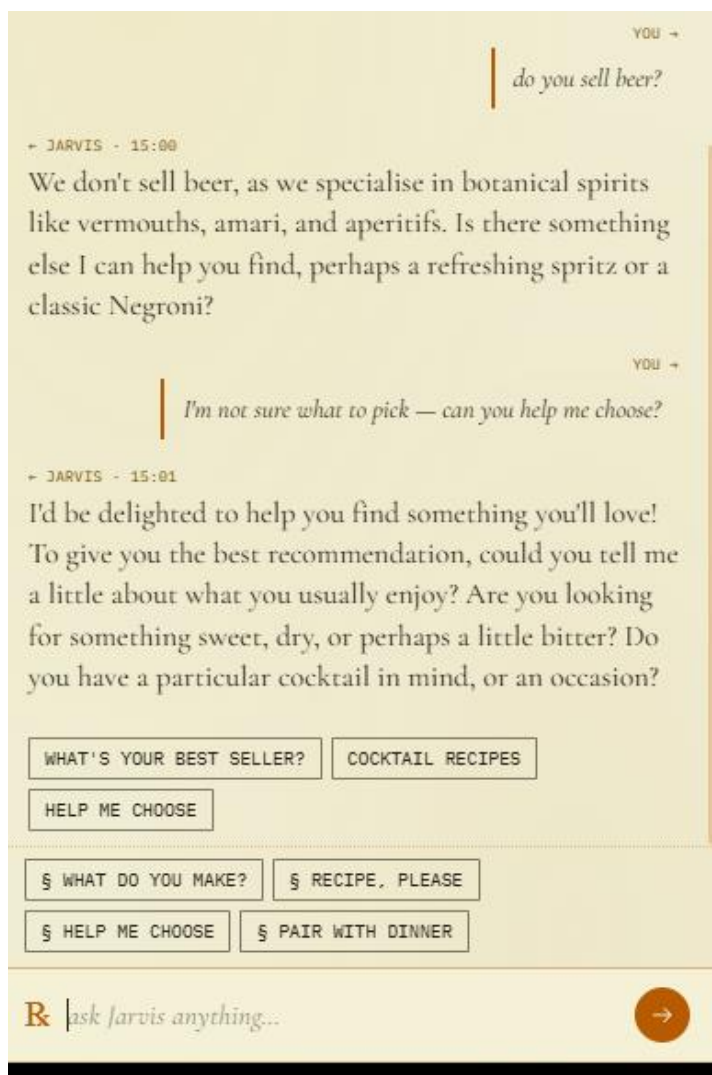

Shareability; send to a friend?

Socials? Sharing / clips etc?

UGC content: upload here in exchange for a voucher code?

Will the content continue to pull from the Blog pages?

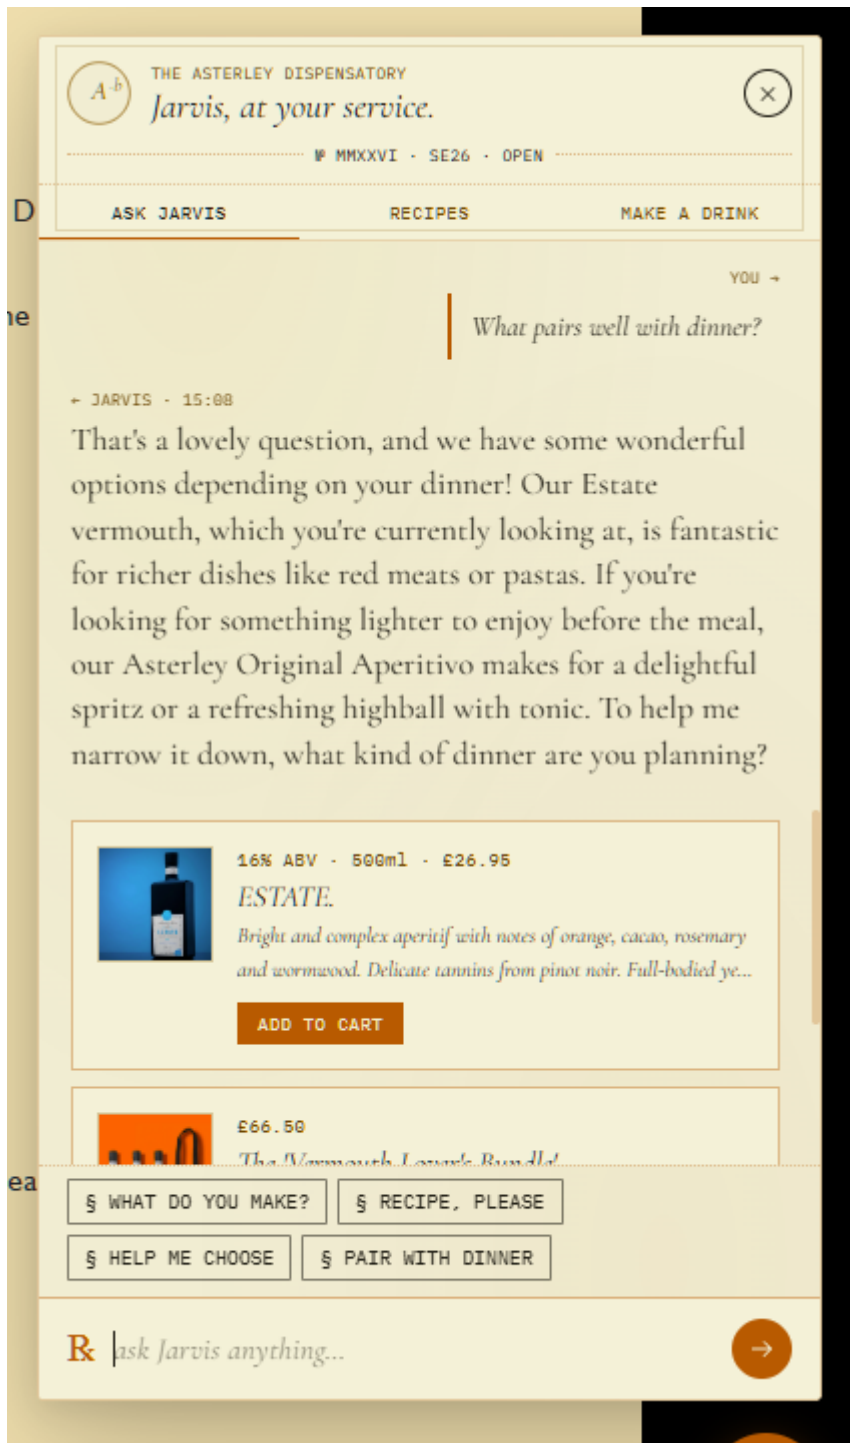

Screenshots and comments

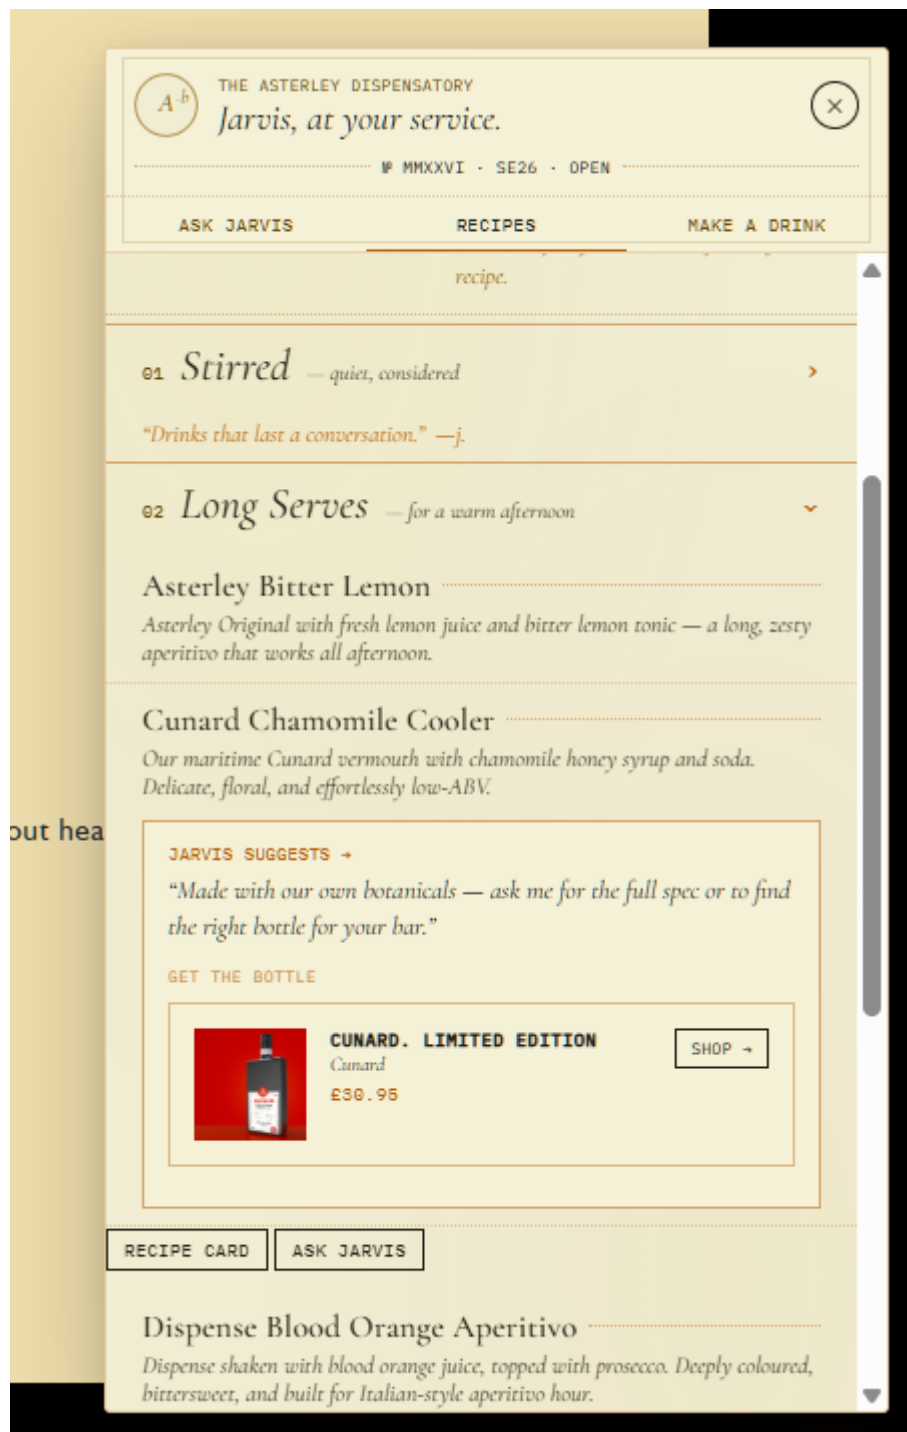

The text boxes are a bit too many here and the three that Jarvis just put forward are not related to the text above (bitter / sweet / etc)

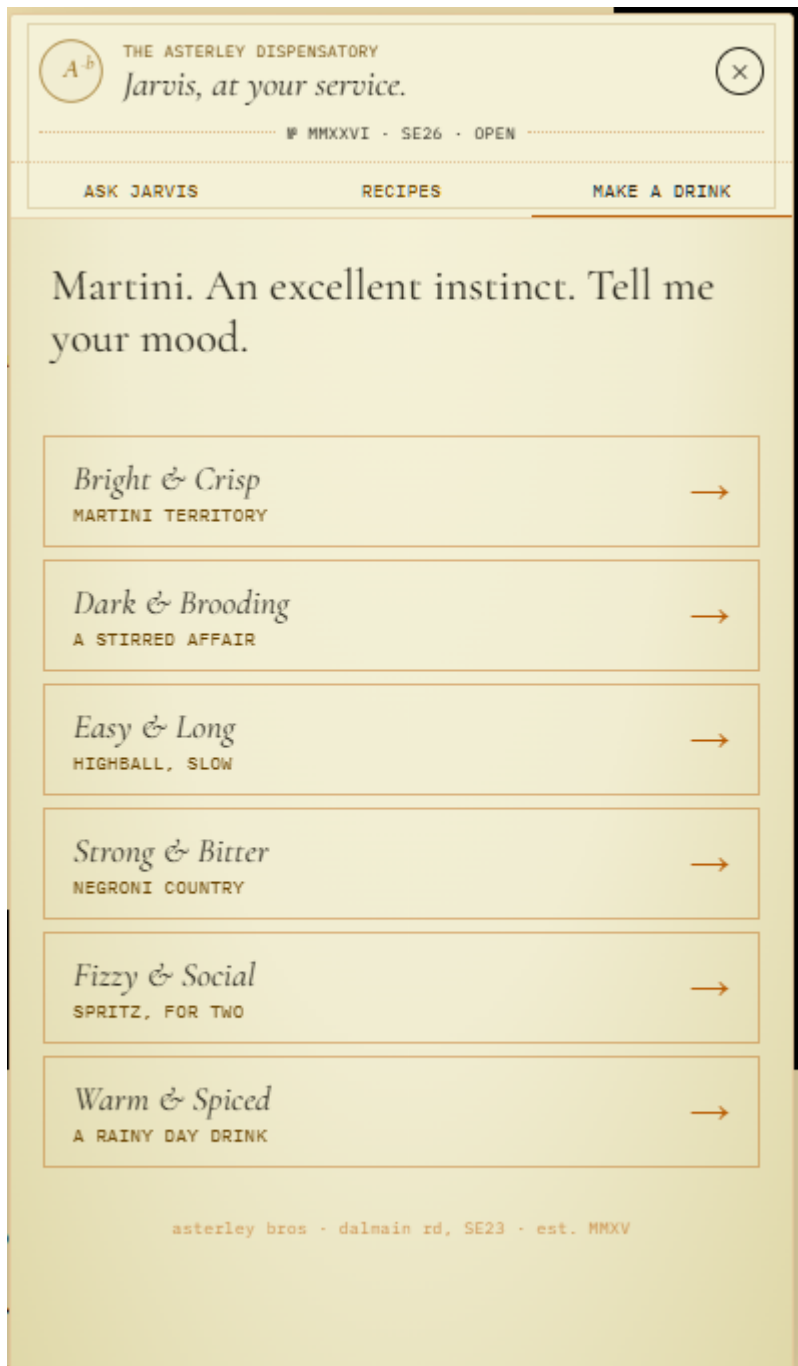

Recipe card could have an image. Also the boxes again not reflective of the conversation above.

Here there is a question re dinner that needs a typed response, but its not a logical jump to type in the box right at the end. Its separated by all the bottles and more boxes. Needs a rethink Same 'jarvis suggests' text on all bottles. Not related to the drink / cocktail selected.

Could we also add a photo?

Needs a back button

The 'make a drink' flow is a little odd

Martini > Highball > White Negroni doesn't make sense

Digestif > Fizzy and Social > Spritz doesn't make sense

Negroni > Easy and Long > Fernet and Ginger (is a highball)

← JARVIS · 15:10

You're in luck, we have some fantastic cocktails for both! For our Estate vermouth, which you were just looking at, you could try the delightful Estate White Negroni, an Estate Old Fashioned for a lower-ABV option, or even a refreshing Estate Rhubarb Spritz. And with Schofield's Dry Vermouth, perfect for your salmon dinner, we have lovely options like the Schofield's Cucumber Collins or a Schofield's Garden Cup for something bright and refreshing. Do any of these catch your eye, or would you like to explore some other styles?

There could be links in the text to products and drinks